Dr. S. S. Morgan.

"Since graduating from the Kansas City Veterinary College in 1912, Dr. Morgan has demonstrated thoroughly that his diploma from that institution was well deserved. In the practice of his chosen profession in this section he has been very successful and I have heard a number of farmers speak of Dr. Morgan in the most complimentary terms. He has skillfully handled a great many obstinate cases and surely he who alleviates the sufferings of the faithful lower animals is following a noble calling. It has been the pleasure of the writer to be with Dr. Morgan at the same hotel since arriving in Richmond, and his friendliness and courtesy is noticeable at all times. As a natural consequence he is popular with all the people, and his friends are confident that he will stand at the top of his profession. He has all of the requisites—ability, ambition and perseverance. The writer looked through the veterinary hospital of Dr. Morgan's yesterday, and it is an institution that will prove instructive to everybody interested in the welfare of the farmers and the lower animals. There are stalls and places for operations in this building and every kind of an instrument liable to be needed in any kind of operation. I saw one $250 horse that Dr. Morgan just relieved from suffering sufficient to make one jaw swell to the proportions of two. In the office in the building is the picture of the graduating class of which Dr. Morgan was a member. 130 young gentlemen from many states and countries. There were also his diploma from the Kansas City Veterinary College and also the "sheep-skin" from the State Veterinary Board of Missouri. Dr. Morgan was reared at Oregon, but picked Richmond as the place to locate permanently and he has already proven to be a blessing to the farmers, the horses and stock of every description in this section of Missouri."

The foregoing is taken from the Richmond, Ray county, Missourian, November 25, in a write-up of their town and business men, and also of their new court house, costing $100,000, and other improvements made there this year. Dr. Morgan is a son of Judge H. F. Morgan, of this city, and was born and raised here. We are always glad to learn of the success of any of our former citizens—it does us good to learn of their prosperity and success.

Fall Orchard Work.

General orchard pruning will come later, but remove the dead, diseased, or broken limbs at once. Ragged wounds left where branches have been broken down by fruit, or by ladders used in picking, leave openings for cankers and other diseases. They should be pruned back to the living wood so as to leave a smooth wound which may be painted to keep out diseases.

Make cider, vinegar, or dried apples of culls. Those that are not good enough for this purpose should be fed to the hogs, and the worthless or decayed fruit which clings to the tree should be taken off and destroyed. In some way because it usually contains either codling moth, or the germs of such diseases as bitter rot and scab.

Grass, weeds, and litter should be removed from the base of each tree. If mice can find nesting material against the tree they are likely to girdle the tree during winter. Any decaying plant growth makes a good winter cover for orchards lands, but precaution should be taken to prevent fire from spreading to the orchard if this cover is abundant.

Drain the low places in the orchard which are likely to collect winter rains or melting snow, for water standing in the orchard is likely to do damage.—J. C. Whitten, University of Missouri, College of Agriculture.

Hibbard—Moore.

On Wednesday, Nov. 24, 1915, at 6 o'clock in the evening, Ray Hibbard and Miss Bessie Moore, came to the Presbyterian Manse in New Point and in the presence of a very few invited guests and the minister's household, were united in the bonds of wedlock by Rev. T. D. Roberts.

The groom is a son of John Hibbard and wife, of Oregon, and is with T. L. Price in the hardware business. He is a young man of sterling qualities and has the confidence of the social and business circles of his home town. He is a fine workman and is well equipped for a successful business course and will make a good home for the woman of his choice. The bride is a daughter of John Moore and wife, living seven miles north of Oregon. She is a young woman who is loved and most highly esteemed for her many noble qualities of heart and mind. She is a most worthy companion for the man who has chosen her to be his bride and homemaker.

Ray could not have made a better choice of a wife—even if the minister did try to slip her sister into the bride's place for the ceremony.

Oregon is to be congratulated upon her good fortune in having these excellent young people as residents.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard wish them a long, happy and prosperous journey through life. R.
